Consideration of the eight hour bill was resumed. Considerable debate arose as to the amount of money invelved in the bill.

Mr. Blair put it at not over $1,260,000.

Mr. Cockrell said the estimate made by a distinguished member of the Holmes gave the amount at $30,000,000.

Mr. Inguils characterized the bill as a pittry quibbling evasion of the real question at issue. There was no doubt as to the intention of Coopress when it passed the eight hour law in 1868. After the issue of Fresident Grant's proclamation in May, 1869, directing observance of the law, $700,000 was paid in roadjustment between the passage of the act and the issuence of the proclamation.

In obselience to the demands that came to Senators for justice to labor, they, too, allowed—writement to get to the Court of Claims and ask that Court, to say what had been the intention of Coopress in passing the origina eight bour law. If the Senate put itself for record in havor of such bill it would subtify every member of it. If twere distinable the Court of Claims should take cognizance of each claims, all that was requisite was to remove the bar of statute ministions.

Unanimus consent having been given, Mr. Blair withdrew the committee amount.

that was requisite was to remove the bar of statute minitations.

Unanimous consent having been given, Mr. Blair withdrew the committee amoodment and offered as a substitute for the House bill the one passe. By the Science in the last Congress. It directs the payment of a day's say for every eight hours work of Government employes since June, 1868, when the dight hour law was enacted, the Court of Claims to adjust claims on that basis and no statute limitation and no receipt for money shall bear the right to recover.

Mr. Dawes moved a substitute for that offered by Mr. Blair.

SILVER SPECUL TIO

Statements of Owenby.

Washington, Feb. 6. J. M. Donald, Cashier of the Habover National Hank, who testified heretofore before the silver peol investigating committee that he had no knowledge in regard to Congressional silver speculations, again sppeared before the committee to-day. He decide a welutely Owenby's estaments of an arrangement with the witness by which Owenby was to receive a share of the profits in silver speculation in consideration of information to be furnished. Owenby had asked the witness to carry silver for him of margin, but the witness absolutely refused to do so. He dealed all statements of Owenby to the effect that the witness that Congressmen were interested in silvar speculation and further declared he never had a silver transaction in his life. The witness had not the slightest interest in the silver bill except as to the $63,000,000 National Bank redemption clause and making silver certificates legal tender, so it could form a part of the banks' reserve. Donald testified that $250 of the amount the Hanover Bank, through the witness, had paid Owenby, was for information regarding the silver bill and $200 by the North Carollin Bank correspondent for whom Owenby Had Done Some Service. At the conclusion of Mr. Aorgan's speech the Senate resumed consideration of the House bill providing for the adjustment of accounts of laborers, we kmen and mechanics arising under the sight hour law, and was addressed by Mr. Morrill in opposition to it.

TEST OF STRENGTH.

Legislation Apparently Doomed in the Present House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. The general opinion concerning the action of the House to-day in sustaining Mr. Payson's ruling again't the silver bill is that there will be no more silver legislation at this assion. The vote was considered a fair test of the strength of free coinage in the House and it is believed the same result will be had if a vote is taken in the lower bady on the Senate bill.

No Change in the Ballot.

SPRINGPIELD, Ill., Feb. 6. The 59th, 60th, 6tat, 62nd and 63rd ballot to-day for the Baltot States Senator resulted: Palmer, 101; Oglesby, 100; Streeter, 3; necessary to a choice, 103.

Notes

The melodious days of "Pinafore" are recalled by the merry nautical opera Ship Ahoy, now running at the Park Theatre, Boston. It is the operatic hit of the season, and is full of good music, catchy airs, and quaint conceits. Its topical song, "Did it ever occur to you?" is capital, and of course it is drawing big houses, as every good light opera does.

It is said that the illness of Mme. Patti, in Bristol, has disturbed financial strangements amounting to more than $150,000. If she does not speedily recover the money paid into subscription concerts in the whole engagements will have to be re-

Maj. Kenyon the kidden of the company of the letter of the called the calle was bidden to dinner the evening of his homecoming, and of course many of the garrison people happened in, and so there was nothing but general chat. But two evenings later, when the major was sitting in the big armchair and dis-coursing on some of his favorite hobbies,

"Have you never heard Hearn's answer, major?" said Lane. "He read it to me before sending it, and I thought it so good that I kept a copy. Here it is."

Miss Marshall was sitting at the table under the bright lamp as Lame began to read. Mabel noticed that she leaned forward, shading her eyes with her "I have thought it lall over, my dear father. The offer you make me as one for which I thank you with all my heart.

"Father, when I bound myself to the United States as a cadet: I received at the hands of the nation a schooling such as I cor'd get at no other institution in the world and was molect by the na-tion for its service. If is after years I found myself better fitted to serve in some other way, then there might be ex-cuse for tensering a resignation. But when I feel and know that I am far more oldier than I can ever be anything else, soding than I can ever be anything est, it all the more convinces me that my efforts belong now and for a lifetime to the nation that trained me and that I ting a layer of hay and a layer of straw until all is used. The straw will be benehave sworn to serve. The dear ones at home know me best, it is true. The class in whose supposed interests I have been so unjustly assailed, it is also true, is very different from that in which we move. But, in the broad light of a soldier's duty, reither the love of the one nor the unreasoning hate of the other should swerve me. The hard, est knocks a soldier has to bear come sometimes from the very men whom he is sworn to defend. You would not is sworn to defend. You would not have me-yield because of a stinging wound or two, nor would I be worthy of your name if I faltered now. It is my belief that, despite apparent apathy, there is still north or sor the a place in the nearts of the people for every soldier who seeks faithfully to serve them, and

"By Jupiter!" said Kenyon, as he sprang to his feet and strode excitedly up and down the room, isn't that enough to make one damn the liverty of the press, to think that a month ago it was looking up that fine fellow for everything that was low and contemptible! Miss Marshall, if I were ... Why,

September came, and the Eleventh would soon be on its homeward march. Letters to the regiment made frequent mention of old Kenyon's devotion to Miss Marchall, and even Hearn had to hear occa ional bits of conversation that told him that in quitting Ryan he had abandoned the field to a rival. But when orders reached them there was other news: Miss Marshall was to re-turn to the east at once. "Despite every plea." wrote Mabel, "she persists in it, and adament is no more yielding than is her determination, I am utterly heartbroken, but cannot prevent it. She has been making arrangements for a new position of some kind for the last six weeks, and she will leave before the regiment gets back."

And when the Eleventh come marching into Ryan late in the mouth, and a host or tanned and bearded troopers rode in behind the band on its dancing her first week at the kindergarten to getgrays. Georgia Marshall had vanished from the scene.

Martin's suggestion. But the next thing heard of him he had turned up in Ch-cinnati and Mabel knew well what that meant, and waited with bated breath. For a month there came no further news, and then he was reported at St. Augustine, more crabbed than ever.
"Then he, too, has been rejected," said

cherries, and was looking forward to examination for promotion.

Everything was going blithely at the pert, but for the sadness that seemed to have clouded one young soldier's life, and for the anxious look on Mabel Lone's face when Portia was asked for, as Portia, aften was. "Teaching children all the fall and winter was telling on her," wrote an old school friend, and when April came she was reported ill, though her own letters made no mention of it. The family would move to their country seat, in a week, and she would be so glad, she said, to see the trees and birds again.

Electrical Reporting.
Electric Power describes a new tem of reporting baseball and other games by means of an ingenious elec-trical apparatus. The special object of the apparatus is to enable a full report ly off, turn it up once or twice and cart to the apparatus is to enable a full report of games to be made in sight of a large number of people and at the same time to dispense with one or more of the assistants now required in reporting such games. This device is intended not only to indicate the progress of distant games, but actually to be used at the opposite end of the ball field from the grand stand, in order to enlighten the nectators on many points on which that too much fermentation cannot set in before it is completed. Hay should be added every day until the mow is full. It. the spectators on many points on which they are liable to be momentarily in doubt. Spectators coming in late are often unable to ascertain the number of innings played, the striker at the bat, the number of balls and strikes called, etc., and even those already on the ground sometimes find it difficult to dea strike or a ball. All these weighty issues, upon which the baseball enthusiast expends such intense solicitude, can now be clearly and reliably recorded, and all anxiety and uncertainty can be removed by a glance at the exhibition board placed in sight of the spectators, ARE LEFT TO LITTLE WILLIE ELIZABETH the indicators on which are electrically By far the most interesting patient now
